No one can reliably predict how a particular asset class will perform in any given year. Financial markets do not move in concert with one another; individual asset classes (cash, fixed income and equities) will perform differently in any given year and at any time one asset class may be leading the market while others lag.

Markets will always go up and down in the short term. Investing in a balanced portfolio of equities, fixed income and cash offers the potential for an investment experience that is more stable. Assets that increase in value can compensate for others that may be standing still or decreasing, thereby helping to reduce risk and smooth out the returns in a balanced portfolio over the long term.

Your advisor can review your individual investment goals to help you establish the right asset mix based on your needs.

An investment cannot be made directly into an index. The above does not reflect transaction costs, investment management fees or taxes. If such costs and fees were reflected, returns would be lower. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results.
